

Example 6-month plan for campaigning, community action and raising awareness

Thank you for helping to fight the ocean emergency. This plan is an example of how you could raise awareness of the ocean emergency and spread the word about how people can help save our seas.

Before starting, speak to your assessor about how you could adapt the plan to suit your circumstances. Remember to stay safe while doing this activity and be careful when using the internet and social media.

Please note we cannot act as Assessors for your award. Please see the advice on choosing an Assessor on the DofE website.

2 Plan your campaign: 5 changes to help the ocean

Your campaign will run for four months. You can't plan every moment but you should have an idea of the big things you'll do to build awareness and support.

Activity log
Diary

Write a plan setting out the main activities you'll do each month. Try to make sure that something interesting is happening each month. Things to consider include:

Campaign plan

- How will you launch your campaign?
- How will you keep people's interest?
- How can you encourage people to share information?
- How can you motivate people to take action?
- How can you show the difference people will make?
- Do you want people to show you the action they will take e.g. with a pledge or by sharing an image?
- Are you going to create an attention-grabbing moment?
- How will you thank and celebrate your supporters?

Research relevant hashtags if you're using social media and remember to tag us @mcsuk.

If you're stuck for ideas, look at campaigns from charities or brands that you admire. What tactics do they use?

Decide on your communication methods. How will you reach your target audience with your messages? Make a list of ways you could communicate with your audience, for example:

List of communication methods

- your own or your families' or friends' social media accounts
- presentations at your school, to local community groups, to your old primary school, to youth groups
- letters to local businesses
- posters in local shop windows and on noticeboards
- a local newspaper
- letters or petitions to councillors, government representatives or business leaders.

Information for Action provide help with lobbying and contact details for politicians and business leaders around the world.

At writetothem.com you can input your postcode to find out your local councillors and government representatives.

Create a list of facts and stats that you can use in your campaign to help people understand why this issue is important.

We have produced some material that might be useful, including:

- Facts and stats
- Videos from our YouTube channel.

Create your publicity materials

How you will grab the attention of your audience? Do you need images, videos, stories, facts and stats?

Publicity materials

You'll create materials as you go along but you can make your life easier by creating a set of materials to use throughout the campaign.

Websites like Canva provide free templates of posters, flyers and social media squares. Unsplash and Creative Commons provide free-to-use images.

3 to 6 Campaign for change

This is it! Have fun running your campaign.

Remember that you don't have to follow your plan to the letter. If you find things work out differently from how you planned, or you get an unexpected opportunity, you can adapt your plans.

6 Reflect on your achievements

Thank supporters

In the final weeks of your campaign, it's important to celebrate success. Thank everyone who has supported you and changed their behaviour. You could create a thank you video, email, poster or social media post showing the difference their changes will make to our ocean.

Activity log
Diary
Copies of thank you emails, posters, videos or social media posts

Learn from your experience

Reflect on what went well and what could be improved. You could create a list of dos and don'ts to be used by other DofE participants.

Evaluation
notes

Take a moment to celebrate your achievement. Your work will help to create a cleaner, better-protected, healthier ocean.

We would love to see what you did. Please send your photos and a description of what you've done to education@mcsuk.org

Thank you!
